

The Velcro brand nylon fastener is a two part coupling system: one element consists of rows of hooks, the other a mass of loops. When these two elements are pressed together they form a highly secure closure, yet can be easily reopened with a simple peeling action.

What makes the Velcro closure so unique is that it has infinite adjustability, is completely jam-proof, and is highly durable, normally outlasting the end product on which it is being used.

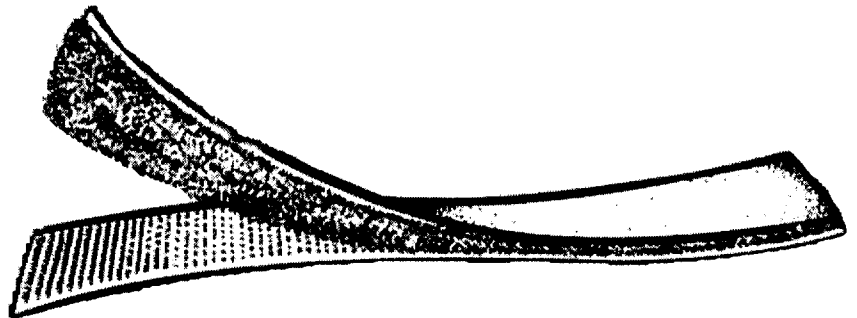

Velcro is available by cut yardage or in 25 yard rolls.
